

Browns Mart Education
Theatre Production Workshops 2018

The Crucible

Lighting Workshop:

Browns Mart is running a lighting workshop as part of their 2018 Education Program in order to provide skills development to students interested, and / or already engaged in working backstage on theatre shows.

The Lighting Designer is an integral part of all theatre productions. The Lighting designer's contributions to a piece of theater provide a vital sense of realism, mood and tension.

The Lighting Workshop will held in the Browns Mart Theatre, and be run by one of Brown's Mart qualified Theatre Technicians, in conjunction with local Lighting Designer Sean Parady. It will cover several topics and hands on practical elements including:

- What types of lights are used in theatres and how they work.
- How to rig a light in a Theatre.
- The effect that colour has on sets and people.

And design elements that include:

- The role of the Lighting Designer.
- The process involved in doing a theatrical Lighting design.

We encourage students that have an interest in other areas of backstage theatre to take part in this workshop in order to get a broad understanding of theatrical process, and the role of people within production teams.

As the show workshops are linked to The Crucible, it is compulsory that students are booked to attend a performance if they wish to attend the workshop. Elements of the show will discussed in the workshop.

Date: Thursday 22nd March, 2018
Time: 9am – 11am
Location: Browns Mart Theatre

Due to the high demand of these workshops, any student booking above four students per school will require a deposit.
